Response to Amendment

The change of title, in Amendment , filed on 7/6/00 has been acknowledged.

In the claims: cancellation of claims 1-35, as being directed to a non-elected group has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 36-46 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cloud et al. (U.S. 5,653,619).

Regarding claim 36, Cloud et al. disclose a field emission device (see column 1, line 15) comprising a number of cathodes formed in rows along a substrate (11), a gate insulator (18) formed along the substrate and surrounding the cathodes (see Fig 1), a number of gate lines (15) formed on the gate insulator (18) (see column 1, lines 60-67), an anode (16) (see column 4, lines 6-7), the anode (16) being formed orthogonal and opposing the cathodes (see column 2, lines 13-14).

Though Cloud et al. do not exemplify the anode in form of strips (plurality of anodes) however, it is conventional to have number of anodes in matrix addressed array of cold cathode emission devices (see U.S. 5,675,210).

Cloud et al. further disclose that a distance separating the number of cathode emitter tips from the number of gate lines is significantly thinner than a separation distance separating the number of gate lines and the substrate (see Fig 1, Fig 2, and Fig 2B).

Method limitations in claim 36 and claim 37 have not been given patentable weight since the method of forming the device is not germane to the issue of patentability of the device itself (see MPEP 2113).

Regarding claim 38, Cloud et al. disclose that the number of cathodes (13) include polysilicon cones (see column 3, lines 60-66).

Regarding claim 39, Cloud et al. disclose that the cathodes (13) includes metal silicides (see column 7, lines 54-59).

Regarding claim 40, Cloud et al. disclose that the substrate (11) includes glass (see column 3, line 58).

Regarding claim 41, Cloud et al. disclose that gate lines (15) include refractory metals (see column 6, lines 1-2).

Regarding claim 42, Cloud et al. disclose that the number of gate lines (15) include doped silicon (see column 6, lines 2-3).

Claim 43 is rejected for the same reason as claim 36.

Claim 44 is rejected for the same reason as claim 37.

Claim 45 is rejected for the same reason as claim 39.

Claim 46 is rejected for the same reason as claim 41.

Other Prior Art Cited

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Doan et al. (U.S. 5,259,799); Kim (U.S. 5,675,210).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's amended claims and arguments have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The structure of field emission array, as disclosed in claim 36, and claim 43 are obvious from the structure of field emission display disclosed by Clouds et al. (US 5653619).

In this particular case, the product in the product by process claim (claim 36) is obvious from a product of the prior art (Cloud et al. Us. 5653619). Thus the product claim (claim 36) is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process (as acknowledged by applicant on page 3 of Amendment A, filed on 7/6/00).

Same reason holds for the product by process claim as disclosed in claim 43.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
